

PRESS RELEASE

Exclusive Diwali session on 'Lighting up portfolio'

Wasankar Wealth Management Ltd has organized an exclusive Diwali session on 'Lighting up portfolio' as part of its regular investors' meet for members on Sunday 18th October 2009 from 11 am for one hour.

Retail Investors are in confused state of mind as to what to do with their holdings in equity and mutual funds. Listening for expert advice from television and print media also seems to be of little use in view of conflicting opinions and absence of clear directions. Most often asked questions are about which stock to hold on and which stock to sell out; which MF scheme to hold on and which MF scheme to sell out. Common trend followed by retail investors appear to be stock specific or scheme specific approach to decisions rather than portfolio approach.

Wasankar Wealth Management Ltd has therefore organized an exclusive Diwali session on 'Lighting up portfolio' as part of its regular investors' meet for members on Sunday 18th October 2009 from 11 am for one hour.

Major topics to be covered in the session will include –

- What is Portfolio approach to investment and trading.
- Advantage of portfolio approach Vs stock specific approach
- Types of portfolios and how to build them
- How to evaluate equity or mutual fund portfolio
- Why and when to go for restructuring of portfolio
- Lighting up portfolio for better performance

Recent sessions included promising sectors, post budget analysis, valuation of frontline stocks and how to read corporate results. The other major topics covered in investors' meets so far included Economic Indicators and relationship to Stock Market, Economic cycle and Market cycle, Risk Management and Art of Diversification, Portfolio building and restructuring, basics of technical analysis, how to identify market trends and reversals, Art of booking Profits, Winning with Fibonacci, Spotting trouble ahead of event through analysis of Financial Statements.
