WASANKAR Investments received a good response to its executive workshop on 'Applied Technical Studies' held recently at Hotel Tuli International. The faculties for the two-day workshop were Vinay Wasankar, Managing Director and Ramkumar Iyer, General Manager of Wasankar Investments.

There were 12 sessions. All the sessions were interactive with the participants mastering the technical skills through innovative exercises. The topics covered included Wave Theory, Fibonacci studies, Trend Identification and reversal using ADX and other advanced indicators, identifying trend reversal using candle stick method, successful entry set-ups for investors and traders through customised studies created using several indicators, importance of divergence between price and indicators and how to avoid false break outs by correct interpretation of divergences. Exploration techniques and back testing using simulation models were also part of the workshop curriculum.

The workshop concluded with a market forecast exercise aided by the skills learned during the workshop. The participants were also presented with a ready reckoner for technical studies. It is a highly graphical reckoner with basic rules related to each technical study and how one should apply them. They were also given membership of the Investors Technical Club which will enable them to receive periodical update on latest developments in technical studies but also will entitle them for free update workshops from time to time.
